

YOU CAN TASTE IT FROM WHERE YOU ARE

Consensus Heartland Dolcetto Lagrein 2013

GOLD MEDAL - LANGHORNE CREEK WINE SHOW MAY 2015

Heartland Langhorne Creek Dolcetto Lagrein, 2013, $20. Incredibly this is the tenth vintage of this combination. Equally incredibly, for something decidedly unusual, it's decidedly normal. Most incredibly it is delightful and $20.

Rating: 8.9 / 10

Max Crus | The Grape Expectations | April 2015

An unorthodox Langhorne Creek red that offers appetising Italianate aromas of cherries, spice and leather. It's smooth and juicy in the mouth with a lovely soft feel and easy finish.

Score: 90 Value: Fantastic

Ralph Kyte-Powell | Wine Guide SMH | May 2015

It's a jubey, juicy, pretty wine of ripe fruit, brisk, crisp acidity and, all up, a gluggable, fun-loving feel. There's spice, ripe fruits, something bubblegummy and a twist of amaro-like sour sweet all going on. Something about these kinds of playful, against-the-grain blends from Australia that keep on rewarding drinkers.

91 Points

Mike Bennie | Wine Business Magazine | May 2015

A unique 50:50 blend of Dolcetto, which makes soft, fruity, early-drinking wines in Piedmont, Italy, and the more tannic and higher-acid Lagrein grape from Italy's north east. The result is a deeply coloured, floral-anise-and-spice-flavoured red that is nicely balanced and a versatile food wine well suited to savoury pasta and pizza.

Rating = 3 stars

Graeme Phillips | Tasmanian Weekend Mercury | May 2015

