

YOU CAN TASTE IT FROM WHERE YOU ARE

Dark to black berries and plums, an earthy, medium-grain, mouth-filling texture all point to a regional/ vineyard expression where the savoury and fruit elements meet and shake hands, unfolding fuller bodied dark chocolate tannins and licorice-like spice notes. Genuine complexity at a good price.

From Australia's relatively cool Langhorne Creek district, this is beautifully crafted shiraz and a bargain for the quality. Rich and velvety yet firmly structured, it delivers a truckload of plum-jam and blueberry fruit coated in dark chocolate, lifted by spicy-peppery notes and fresh acidity. Try it with grilled or roasted red meats...

Reliable. Hearty. Tar and plum with enough toast and woody spice notes to stitch it neatly together and close the deal.

Clearly from a good vintage

James Halliday WINE COMPANION | July 26, 2014

It's sweet-centered, soft and hearty all at once. It has that extra burst of fruitiness, that exuberance, that you tend to get from good, warm, bountiful vintages. It tastes of tar, blackberry, toast and woody spice. Alcohol shows through on the finish but extra marks for such an energetic display of berried fruit.

Deep garnet-purple in color, the 2012 Shiraz explodes with crème de cassis, blackberry pie and mint aromas accented by hints of licorice and dark chocolate. Full-bodied, rich and packed with warm black and blueberry fruit flavors, it has a medium to firm level of fine, rounded tannins and a long, spicy finish with lively lift. Drink now to 2018+.

YOU CAN TASTE IT FROM WHERE YOU ARE

Very fruity nose with nice intensity of cedary oak.
Beautifully textured palate that's rich with juicy fruit and supported by drying tannins.
